The Fellowship celebrates exceptional achievements and contributions by teacher-scholars across Canada. Now in its twenty-fourth year, the Fellowship—over 230 strong—continues to build and enhance personal and institutional reputations as the most prestigious recognition of teaching excellence in Canada. Their home universities, particularly, can celebrate the Fellows' tireless dedication to teaching, learning, and educational leadership.

The 3M National Teaching Fellows will be introduced to Canada in the special issue of Maclean's on February 5th. Formally, STLHE will honour them at their annual conference at the University of New Brunswick on June 18th. In November, 3M Canada will bring the Fellows to Le Château Montebello for a scholarly retreat.

The 3M National Teaching Fellowship personifies the diverse landscapes of the Canadian academy, representing a wide range of regions, disciplines, and universities, both large and small.

The 3M National Teaching Fellowship, established in 1986 through the generosity of 3M Canada and STLHE, pays tribute to 238 Canadian professors from 45 universities.
